

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An apparatus displays images recorded by a camera. The apparatus includes a reading unit and an output unit. The reading unit reads information of focus areas used in image capture. The output unit outputs, based on the information read by the reading unit, signals for displaying the images.